1. Introduction

The Madison East-West Bus Rapid Transit (BRT) Project (the project) is a proposed 15-mile route serving east-west travel needs in central Madison, Wisconsin. The project extends from East Springs Drive on the east side of Madison to a proposed new park-and-ride at Junction Road on the west side of Madison. Operating primarily via East Washington Avenue, University Avenue, and Mineral Point Road, the BRT line would serve the major regional destinations of the isthmus (downtown Madison), the University of Wisconsin-Madison (UW) campus, Madison Area Technical College, and major employers and several shopping centers located throughout the corridor. BRT buses would use a combination of center-running bus lanes, side bus lanes, and mixed-traffic lanes. The project also includes electric bus charging infrastructure at the Sun Prairie Park-and-Ride and the Metro Satellite Maintenance Facility where BRT layovers will occur.

This technical report summarizes known potentially contaminated sites within the project area. This report was prepared for the documented Categorical Exclusion (DCE) in accordance with NEPA requirements. The following sections provide an overview of the existing conditions, potential impacts, and avoidance, minimization, and mitigation measures.

2. Potentially Contaminated Sites

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) oversees regulations pertaining to hazardous waste management per Ch. NR 660-679,¹ Wis. Adm. Code and as required by the federal Resource Conservation and Recovery Act.² The DNR's Wisconsin Remediation and Redevelopment Database (WRRD)³ provides information on different contaminated land activities in Wisconsin, including investigations and cleanups of contaminated soil and/or groundwater, spills, and Superfund sites.

A review of the WRRD was conducted to identify and evaluate sites potentially containing hazardous or regulated materials or other sources of potential contamination. The study area included sites within 500 feet of the East-West corridor. Within the study area, 15 open sites and 177 closed sites were identified. Table 1 identifies potentially contaminated open sites by the site name and Bureau for Remediation and Redevelopment Tracking System (BRRTS) identification number. Yellow highlighting indicates sites that are within approximately 200 feet of proposed BRT stations. Figure 1, Figure 2, and Figure 3 illustrate the locations of sites potentially containing hazardous or regulated materials.

3. Avoidance, Minimization and Mitigation Measures

The project would largely occur within the existing right-of-way. Ground disturbance and work outside of the existing right-of-way would be required at proposed BRT stations. The project would not require building demolition.

There would be no hazardous or regulated materials produced by the project during its operation. No permanent storage tanks would be installed for as part of this project. The collection and disposal of oils, grease, and other waste materials generated during vehicle maintenance and repair activities would be performed in accordance with recognized industry best management practices (BMPs) for bus maintenance facilities and in accordance with regulatory requirements.

During final design, the City of Madison will conduct a Phase I Environmental Site Assessment (ESA) for all disturbance areas in accordance with the US Environmental Protection Agency's All Appropriate Inquires Rule. The results of the investigation would be used to determine if impacts to contaminated sites could be minimized or avoided or if additional investigation is needed (Phase II ESA). A Contaminated Materials Management Plan approved by the DNR would be implemented during construction as a proper method of handling contamination and regulated waste materials and providing protection for construction workers.

Construction materials and debris, including fuels, oil, and other liquid substances, would be stored in the construction area in a manner that would prevent them from entering a wetland, waterbody, or groundwater source as a result of spillage, natural runoff, or flooding. If a spill of any potential pollutant should occur, it would be the responsibility of the City of Madison to remove such material, minimize any contamination resulting from the spill, and immediately notify the State Duty Officer.
